VOL. XLVIII—No. 122. CITY OF KINGSTON, N. Y., TUESDAY EVENING, MARCH 11, 1919. PRICE TWO CENTS

BIG FIVE'S MILITARY TERMS WHICH RENDER GERMANY HELPLESS

The following military terms for Germany have been decided upon by the big five, thus reducing to impotency formerly one of the greatest single military powers the world has ever known:

Army shall consist of 100,000 volunteer men of the rank and file and a limited number of officers.

All military aircraft shall be surrendered or destroyed.

The army shall not be equipped with artillery above the calibre of field guns; all artillery of greater bore shall be surrendered or destroyed.

An Allied mission shall supervise the munitions plants to see that ammunition is not manufactured secretly.

HOW GERMANS WILL PAY FOR FOOD

Negotiations for Transfer of Ships Begin at Brussels Thursday—Enemy Needs Half Billion Worth of Provisions.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

London, March 11.—(By British Government Wireless.)—The first sitting of the Allied and German armistice commissioners to consider the transfer of German merchant ships and the revictualing of Germany will probably be held at Brussels on Thursday.

The chief difficulties so far encountered in consideration of this question at Paris arose over the method of payment. New proposals are expected to be made, however, to meet this problem.

It is understood that payments will come from three sources:

1. Products like coal and potash.

2. From credits which Germany has in neutral countries, but which have thus far been unavailable owing to the blockade.

3. From foreign securities held in Germany.

These three sources will yield about 100,000,000 pounds sterling ($500,000,000) it is estimated. This sum is required to pay for the food that will be needed to tide Germany over until the next harvest.

As a result of the exchange of views, during the course of the former negotiations at Spa, the Allied peace delegates have reason to believe that the new proposals will be acceptable and that German ships will be available for the transportation of American soldiers back home.

Marshal Foch may not attend the next meeting of the parliamentaries, but all of the other Allied delegates will be present.

BERLINERS KEEP ON FIGHTING

Spartacides Being Driven To Eastern Part of City—Artillery Razes Many Buildings—Barricades of Flour and Sugar.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Berlin, March 9, via London, March 11.—Fighting continued in Berlin today between Spartacides and government troops. A battle was raging in the eastern part of the city this morning.

An airman, who, the government authorities insist, was a Spartacide, dropped a bomb on a crowd of unarmed civilians killing four and wounding 25.

Spartacides, supported by sailors, stormed the city prison and released two hundred prisoners, some of them dangerous criminals.

The streets leading to Moabit prison were barricaded by the government troops with barbed wire entanglements.

Wilhelmstrasse, where the government buildings are located, was closed. The entrances were covered with huge posters bearing the inscription: "Who goes here will be shot."

Siege of Workmen's Theater.

The Spartacides have been driven back from the central part of the city to the eastern part. Some are leaving by the water route, seizing barges and tugboats in the Spree river.

A stray hand grenade fell in a branch postoffice building during the fighting in Arnswaldesplatz, killing two persons.

Government troops brought up artillery and shelled the workmen's theatre, called the "Volkshuehne." Mines were exploded also.

The Spartacides had converted the building into a fortress.

Those defending it were soon driven out and the building was destroyed.

As an example of the recklessness of the Spartacides, they built barricades in the street of flour and sugar. These were destroyed by the government troops with grenades and mines.

Six thousand members of the Republican Guards remain loyal to the Ebert government.

Street cars were not in operation today as the conductors and motormen refused to go to work until paid for the time they were on strike. The employers refuse to do this.

Industrial workers have promised to go back to work on condition that the troops evacuate the factories.

1,000 KILLED IN BERLIN FIGHTING

Scenes More Terrible Than French Revolution Were Enacted As Naked Prisoners Were Dragged Through Streets and Throats Cut.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Amsterdam, March 11.—More than 1,000 persons have been killed and 2,000 injured in the fighting the past week in Berlin, according to advices reaching here. The scenes are reported as more terrible than those of the French revolution. The Reds dragged naked prisoners through the streets and then killed them with hand grenades. Officers were killed by having their throats cut. The battles raging in the suburbs of Berlin are said to be of the fiercest character. The damage in the vicinity of Alexanderplatz is estimated at forty million marks (approximately $8,000,000).

INDUSTRIAL BOARD BEGINS WORK

In Effort to Stabilize Prices and Eliminate Excess Profits—Labor Insists on No Lowering of Wages.

Washington, March 11.—Secretary Redfield's industrial board was today prepared to begin its conferences looking to a stabilization of prices in all industries. The first meeting will be with the steel committee of the American Iron and Steel Institute tomorrow, and food will be taken up, according to present plans, as soon as the steel situation has been disposed of.

With Frank Morrison, secretary of the American Federation of Labor, having served notice that organized labor will refuse to share in the results of price readjustments if "its living standards are to be endangered," Secretary Redfield today reiterated the hope that "there will be no general lowering of wages," but that the purpose of the board primarily will be to eliminate excess profits. Thus, it was pointed out, if prices can be brought to a lower level, workers will not lose if eventually there should be a slight lowering of wages.

Decisions of the board, it was pointed out, will not be binding, but it is expected that they will be carried out both in spirit and letter, following the many assurances of co-operation that have been received by the board.

THOUSANDS OF JOBS

In Postal Service Are Open To Soldiers.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Washington, March 11.—There are thousands of $1,000 a year jobs open to soldiers who possess a rudimentary education, it was announced at the postoffice department. The men are wanted as "carrier clerks" and there is an insistent demand for them in New York, Chicago, Boston, Philadelphia and other large cities, as well as in the smaller communities. The men will be required to pass a civil service examination, but the examination is so easy that even a school boy can pass it. In the case of soldiers a lower rating is given by the civil service commission than is required of civilians.

No Disorder in Buffalo.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Buffalo, N. Y., March 11.—Not the slightest disturbance of any nature has arisen in this city as a result of the action of the city authorities in stopping the proposed parade of the unemployed here yesterday. Adjutant General Charles W. Berry, who was here yesterday conferring with Mayor Buck and Colonel Newton Tarcson, commander of the 74th Infantry, returned to Albany last night satisfied that there was no need for state troops to aid the police in protecting life and property.

Soldier Held for Murder.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Chicago, March 11.—John A. Chance, soldier, arrested late yesterday with his brother-in-law, Harry Rochelle, confessed today, the police say, to shooting and instantly killing James Cavanaugh Sunday night. Chance is alleged to have admitted the shooting, declaring "Cavanaugh wronged my sister-in-law, Virginia Rochelle."

TO HAND GERMANS TERMS MARCH 20

If They Refuse Preliminary Conditions Allies May Continue Blockade—Bernstorff Not to Negotiate—General Staff Goes Out.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Paris, March 11.—With the military terms to be imposed upon Germany settled and out of the way, the supreme war council prepared today to take up naval matters. It is expected that a decision as to the naval terms to be incorporated in the peace treaty will be reached before nightfall.

It is expected that the German delegates will be called in March 20 and handed preliminary draft of the peace terms. The possibility of her refusal to accept them is already being considered. What measures the Allies will take in that event are now being discussed.

The military terms decided on for Germany will make her virtually impotent, even against small nations like Switzerland. Her army will be reduced to one hundred thousand men, the number of officers must be held to four thousand and her armaments will be limited. Few if any aircraft, even for commercial purposes, will be allowed by the Allies.

"What will become of the German general staff?" someone asked when the terms were made public.

"Gone with all her paraphernalia," was the reply from a peace delegate familiar with the terms.

Allies Want Quick Decision.

The Allies are in no mood to wait for a long drawn out decision. When the final terms are reached they will hand them over to the Germans. The belief now is that if the terms are accepted everything will be worked out within a reasonable length of time. But there seems to be a disposition among some of the Germans to bluff and force the Allies to send troops into the country to compel a fulfillment of the terms. Whether this is done in the event of non-acceptance of the terms by the Germans is still a question.

The Allies, of course, might refuse to be caught in this trap and simply say: "All right, go home, and we will continue the blockade." This would result in suffering for the innocent, but, if the Allies were forced to take this course it is believed that the Germans would not hold out very long.

Who will make up the personnel of the German delegation is yet uncertain, but it is known that the Allies have sent word that they did not want to treat with Count von Bernstorff, former ambassador to the United States, because his presence would be an insult to both France and the United States.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

New York, March 11.—Another big contingent of the Twenty-seventh division (New York) reached here early today on the transport Mount Vernon. The troop ship arrived at quarantine shortly before 8 o' clock and proceeded immediately to her dock. She carried 2,759 of General O'Ryan's warriors besides members of other units.

The Mount Vernon was closely followed by the transport Agamemnon, with 614 more officers and men of the former New York Guardsmen on board. They included the rest of General Vanderbuilt's former command, the 102nd engineers.

Most of the New Yorkers on the Mount Vernon were members of the famous 27th Division. There were twelve officers and 443 men of the 102nd supply train; 36 officers and 865 men of the sanitary train; 35 officers and 1,390 enlisted men of the munitions train, and 2 officers and 207 men of the military police.

The 102nd supply train was in command of Major Carl H. Loebs, of Rochester. They served at Brest for three months, moving to the British front in the north of France just before the armistice was signed.

The 102nd ammunition train which was recruited by Lieutenant Colonel Walter R. Bell, was attached to the 102 artillery brigade. They saw two months' continuous service. Rev. Royal Tucker, of Gloversville, N. Y., chaplain of the 102nd ammunition train, wore a Distinguished Service Cross today which was awarded to him for rescuing men under heavy fire.

LOTS OF MONEY IN OLD ULSTER

Deputy Revenue Collectors Kept Busy Telling People How to Pay Income Tax—Saturday Last Day—A Few Don'ts.

Deputy Internal Revenue Collectors Darrow and Brodhead are very busy men from 10 o'clock in the morning until 10 o'clock at night daily at the supervisors' room at the court house explaining how to make out the blank returns for men and women of this city and county, and figuring out the amount of tax to be paid, if any. There has been a steady stream of people daily and a waiting list most of the time. Farm blanks have to be made out, the corporation tax figured out, the surtax explained as well as a score of things pertaining to the income tax law. Deputy Collectors Darrow and Brodhead, who have been painstaking in their efforts to instruct the many people who have asked for information, will remain until Saturday, the last day to make full or 25 per cent of payments without incurring additional penalties.

Cash payments of income taxes should not be sent by mail, or tendered to branch offices of collectors of internal revenue. It is only at his main office that a collector receives cash payments. Cash sent by mail is always at the owner"s risk, and if lost or stolen may result in penalties for failure of the payment to reach the collector on or before the due date.

A taxpayer may find it more practical to purchase a money order or draft, or draw his check for the amount of tax made payable to the collector of internal revenue of his district. The payment should be attached securely to the completed return or to a tentative return and forwarded by mail or messenger to the collector's main office or to the nearest internal revenue branch office.

The forwarding of income tax payments should not be delayed. Each payment now due must reach a collector or deputy collector, on or before March 15, otherwise the taxpayer will be subject to penalties named in the law.

WOLFINGER HERE MAKES STATEMENT

Organizer Who Ordered Strike Last Week Returns to Kingston — Says Workmen Were Being Laid Off and That Only 155 Men Went Out on Strike.

The shipyard workers' strike situation along the creek remains unchanged today. The only new development was the arrival here of Mr. Wolfinger, general organizer of the carpenters and joiners' union who made the following statement:

"In answer to the statement made Monday by John D. Schoonmaker: Mr. Schoonmaker claims he had 400 men employed in that yard. There are 70 men now working and 155 of our men walked out. That would give them about 225 men all told. Where are the other 175 men?

"A committee of five had visited the office of the Kingston Shipbuilding Corporation to have an interview with Mr. Schoonmaker, president of the corporation. On arriving at the office General Organizer Wolfinger was introduced to Mr. Schoonmaker as the representative of the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners, sent for by the local unions, 792 and 251, of the city of Kingston, to take up the question of the shipyard workers. He, with the committee of five were appointed to take up the question with Mr. Schoonmaker in reference to why the men were not receiving the wages and why the men were laid off who were receiving the best wages. It seems strange that men should be hired in the forenoon and others laid off at night. These men that were laid off are residents of Kingston who had worked faithfully during the duration of the war. We, as a committee sent by the local unions, wanted to take up the question and bring about some results for the best interests of the firm and the local unions.

"We do not anticipate strikes unless we are actually forced to do so. If Mr. Schoonmaker would have recognized the men and talked over conditions with them there would be no question that the yard would be working at this time. But Mr. Schoonmaker refused an audience to this committee and the matter was referred back to the local unions and the local unions ordered to take action in order to bring about a speedy settlement. As far as the statement made by Mr. Schoonmaker, we know that work that is to be done at present cannot be done with the men that are employed at the present time for the best of the men are out today and the men will not return until such time as Mr. Schoonmaker is ready and willing to meet a committee of both local unions for a settlement. The committee is ready and willing, at all times to meet the employers on an equal footing."

Mr. Wolfinger said that there will be a special meeting of the workers this evening at Griffiths's Hall.

DEADLOCK CONTINUES IN N. Y. STRIKE

Marine Workers Threaten to Cancel Agreement Whereby Few Thousand Resumed Work—Conciliation Fails.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

New York, March 11.—With twenty thousand longshoremen idle and seven thousand marine workers still on strike here today cancellation of the agreement between the railroad administration and several thousand strikers who returned to work was hinted at by Thomas L. Delahunty, president of the Marine Workers' Affiliation.

Reports have been received, Delahunty stated, that the railroad administration is assisting the boat owners, against whom the strike is still in effect.

"If this report proves to be true," the union leader added, "the railroad administration will be given an opportunity to halt the practice. If it fails to do so the strike will be extended again to the entire harbor."

Efforts of Federal Conciliator James Hughes to bring the employes and boat owners together were fruitless. The fact that he took a mass of data to the national capital led to reports that government intervention in the strike was imminent.

HUDSON RIVER ICE CROP A FAILURE

Not a Pound of Ice Harvested From the River the Past Winter—Ice Crop Over 2,000,000 Tons Short.

With not a pound of ice harvested from the Hudson river this past winter, New York city faces an ice crop shortage this summer of over 2,000,000 tons and undoubtedly the price of ice will jump as soon as it is consumed in large quantities.

From the winter of 1917-18 there was carried over about 600,000 tons of ice in the ice houses along this river. The ice crop for several years past has amounted to about 3,000,000 tons. In years gone by about 5,000,000 used to be the average crop from the river, but in the past fifteen years nearly twenty-five of the ice houses along the river have been torn down or destroyed by fire and never been rebuilt.

The big ice companies have been hard at work the past winter securing ice from every source possible. Some have gone into the Catskill mountains. Even with the ice harvested from lakes and ponds it is estimated by icemen who have studied conditions that not over 400,000 tons of ice was cut in the Hudson river valley and vicinity this past winter.

The failure of the ice crop has been felt by the merchants in the river towns. Thousands of dollars were expended each season in wages to the ice harvesters, and this money was spent in Kingston and other river towns.

In Kingston the local dealers have not secured their usual supply of ice, and undoubtedly ice prices in this city this summer will be much higher than usual, although no prices for summer have been fixed as yet by the dealers.

Meat: Russia and the Allies

Russia crumbled away and failed the Allies largely through lack of food, according to an American eyewitness.

With plentiful reserves and resources virtually untouched, her people starved at home and at the front because there was no adequate organization to place food where it was needed.

Animals on the hoof were shipped thousands of miles to the various fronts, wasting transportation facilities required for other purposes. They arrived shrunken and emaciated, to be killed and dressed amidst filth and confusion behind the lines. Half of those brought from Siberia, it is said, perished on the way; many more were unfit for food.

On the other hand, the American packers turned live stock into meat in large sanitary plants located in the producing sections, and shipped the product under refrigeration so that it reached the trenches in France in perfect condition, without waste.

Says Our Authority:

"Had such facilities for cold storage transportation been available to the Russian supply committee as were placed at the disposal of the quartermaster of the United States by Swift & Company, there might have been a different story concerning Russia's part in the final drama of the war."

A large-scale packing industry would be an asset to Russia, in war or in peace, as it has proved to be to the United States.

The cost of this large scale industry in the form of profits is only a fraction of a cent per pound of meat.

Professor Crosby of the State College will be present and will speak on the control of the apple red bug and the meadow or railroad worm, aphis and pear psylla. Miss Dorothy Drake is spending a few days in Poughkeepsie as the guest of her cousin, Miss Mildred Benneway.

Mrs. Emory Freer is still suffering from exhaustion, caused by severe heart difficulty and her condition is causing much anxiety to her family and friends.

The presence of so many birds in this vicinity seems to confirm the fact that we shall not have any more winter weather this season. On March 1 the writer saw robins and since that date bluebirds, juncos, chickadees, three fox sparrows and several song sparrows, one of which was caroling an unusually sweet song. The writer was not fully convinced of its identity until after following it from place to place the never failing mark of identification (the little brown spot on breast) was sighted. Purple grackles are also in evidence and a neighbor's little boy is positive that he saw a catbird last week.

Private Harlowe McLean received his honorable discharge from the U. S. military service on Saturday morning last and came to his home in this village during the afternoon. He arrived from overseas about two weeks ago. He was sent first to Camp Merritt, then to Camp Upton to be mustered out of service. He with 2,000 others came across on the "Orizaba." Strange to say they left France on Lincoln's Birthday and arrived in New York on Washington's Birthday. He thoroughly enjoyed the trip; was not seasick, although the captain of the boat declared it to be the roughest trip he had ever made. He is in excellent health and says he never felt better. Enjoyed the scenery in France but thinks the United States is the "best ever." He left New York for overseas on August 27, 1918, on the Mauretania; was a member of Battery E, 324th Field Artillery. His division reached only five days of six months service when they started for home, but the chevron for the full six months was granted and he also wears the red chevron as evidence of an honorable discharge. Notwithstanding the severe storm on Sunday morning the young soldier was in his place at the Methodist Church, and in the evening led the Epworth League devotional meeting. By a strange coincidence his name had been placed upon the League topic card at the beginning of the quarter (January 1) as leader for that identical evening and all were delighted to have him present to carry out the program. At the beginning of the preaching service he was requested to come forward to the altar rail and the second star from the service flag (which now hangs back of the pulpit) was removed and presented to him with words of commendation by his pastor. Private McLean with his mother, Mrs. Phoebe McLean, will spend a couple of weeks in Andes, N. Y., with relatives and after that he will return permanently to Esopus.

A meeting of the official board of the Methodist Church will be held at the parsonage on Wednesday evening of this week, March 12. All members are earnestly requested to be present.

LONG-WEARING SOLES MEAN LOW SHOE BILLS

"I have never been able to get half the service from other soles that I get from Neolin Soles," says H. H. Shellenberger, a traveling salesman of Easton, Pa.

Long service from the soles means lowered shoe costs, for that is where shoes wear out quickest. When next you need new shoes buy them with Neolin Soles. You pay no more than for shoes that give less wear—and you can get them in many styles for men, women, and children.

Have these durable, comfortable and waterproof soles put on your old shoes, too. All good repair shops carry them. They are made, scientifically, by The Goodyear Tire & Rubber Co., Akron, Ohio, who also make Wingfoot Heels, guaranteed to outwear all other heels.

CAPT. VICTOR HEINTZ

Capt. Victor Heintz, Republican member of the house from Ohio, has been conspicuous in congress and the capital for some time with his Sam Brown belt and the overseas insignia. Both accessories are worn contrary to army regulations, but Captain Heintz has secured his discharge and asks: "Why should I not wear in the United States the insignia I wore in battle overseas? Why should any American soldier be stripped of the overseas insignia by the whim of the high command of the United States army?"

He Never Thought of That.

First Lieutenant Kennedy was instructing his platoon of rookies as to how they should make out their clothes slips.

"Now, men," said the lieutenant, "you will order your shoes two sizes larger than those you have worn in civilian life, because the long hikes will cause the feet to spread."

"Naw, suh," horned in a very large farmer from western Virginia, "not me."

The lieutenant was surprised at this remark, which made him a bit angry. Raising his voice he asked the farmer why he refused to wear his shoes two sizes larger.

"Because, suh, they don't make shoes two sizes larger than I wear."

OUR GREATEST INSTITUTION

Rarely does a President of these free and outspoken United States do a thing that nobody criticizes. Careful inquiry would probably show that President Wilson has done this wonderful thing but once since he entered the White House six years ago. If anybody disapproved, nobody said so, when, hurrying from a crowded day in Washington to speak in New York and then board his ship for France, he stopped for a few minutes in Philadelphia to take a look at his new grandson just come to life in the Jefferson Hospital. If the President had not been as human as any other grandsire, if in his hurry and the press of affairs he would have preferred to see the new baby at a later time and merely wished to strike a popular chord at a rather critical moment, he could not have chosen a better method of doing so.

For, after all, the baby is our greatest institution, "over-population" figuring cranks to the contrary. The baby is not only the sunlight in the home, melting the cockles of the hardest hearts, but is the pledge of the future and the very foundation of a virile nation. Every baby is a living link in the great enduring chain that binds the world of yesterday with the world of tomorrow. The generations come together, humanity of the past and present are made one, in the baby. The baby is more important than the Peace Conference, than laws and governments, than even seed time and harvest, for it is the perpetuation of humanity itself.

AMERICAN SELF-RELIANCE.

It is gratifying to note the tone of cheerfulness and optimism prevailing among the representatives of 43 states and 100 cities who met in Washington on March 3 to discuss after-war labor problems and adjustments. Arizona and West Virginia [illegible] complaints of peculiar difficulties, but the reports of the great majority of states and communities were very encouraging. It appears that at many points there are more jobs than laborers, and at the worst the number of the unemployed is not abnormal. With few exceptions, due to peculiar local conditions, this is the story from all parts of the country.

Maine has no men idle. Maryland has more work than workers. Kansas will want more labor for the harvests. And so on. Said Governor Catts of Florida: "We need labor. We could use two million laborers in the truck gardens, orange groves and fisheries of Florida, but they must come down to common sense business before the people are going to turn their money loose on them." Said Lieutenant Governor Oglesby of Illinois, "We in our state do not feel there is any reason for blue pessimism. America has men, women, resources, money and common sense; we feel sure that if we use our sober second thought, put behind us the fear of the bugaboo man, all will be well."

Straight old-time American confidence and self-reliance was the prevailing characteristic of this important conference. Conspicuous by its absence was that ridiculous assumption that the virile young men who licked the Germans will come home to be helpless dependents upon a paternal government. Nobody urged the need of government agents as props to hold up American industry. Government socialism as a cure for thriftlessness or indolence was not discussed. Practically all the representatives put their faith in a self-reliant people and expressed confidence that all the after-war labor difficulties would be satisfactorily adjusted, as of course they will be.

It seems as if much of the complaint and dissatisfaction with regard to demobilization of the army might be avoided if more attention were paid by the army officers to such probably unmilitary considerations as the existence of an opportunity for the individual to secure immediate employment, or the demand which exists in many places for the services of some men held in the camps for no other reason, apparently, except that they are not in the particular divisions or regiments which are slated for discharge. There are many instances where men in the service are eager to return to their own business, or where their services are desired and perhaps very much needed to carry on business in which they were connected before their enrolment in the army. And yet in these cases it is difficult to secure dismissal. On the other hand, large numbers of men are being discharged who have no opportunities in sight for obtaining employment and who sometimes suffer hardship through lack of money before work is obtained.

LITTLE LAUGHS.

"Billson says he is living on two meals a day." "Where does he get them?"—Life.

"My husband is going to give me a lot of things for Christmas." "How do you know?" "I've bought most of them already."—Judge.

"Are you looking for a permanent investment?" "Not too permanent." "Huh?" "I don't want to put my money in unless there's a chance to get it out."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

"Society is so shallow," remarked the blase young woman. "It's a good thing it is," replied the cynic, "or half the people who are wading around in it would be drowned."—Boston Transcript.

"Did you have plenty to eat in your house?" "Yes," replied Mr. Meekton, "there was plenty, though not the kind I should have selected. Henrietta's supplies ran mostly to bird seed, fish food, and dog biscuits."—Washington Star.

Bible Students.

Dr. Harrison Allan, treasurer of the Bible Society of America, said in an address in Pittsburgh:

"We find a deplorable ignorance of the Bible even among the higher classes. When, now and then, we meet some one who possesses a little Biblical knowledge, he or she is apt to be ridiculously proud about it.

"A young millionaire and his wife were once talking to me about a visit they had made to the famous picture gallery of the Prado in Spain.

"'What did you like best in the Prado?' I asked.

"'A Correggio,' said the husband—'a Correggio of Adam and Eve in the garden, with the apple and the serpent.'

"Then the young wife looked at me with a superior air and added.

"'Yes, that interested us especially because, you see, we knew the anecdote.'"—Exchange.

A Nurse's Touch.

"War nurses," said Dr. Alexis Carrel in an interview on the western front, "differ amazingly in their touch. The touch of one war nurse will be unsympathetic, hard, almost rough, while that of another will be positively soothing.

"A nurse of the former kind was dressing a doughboy's wound one day. The doughboy squirmed and grimaced, and the nurse said to him reproachfully:

"'Why, where's your fortitude?'

"'Fortitude?' grumbled the doughboy. 'I tell you what it is miss—fititude or sixtitude couldn't stand your handling.'"—Exchange.

The New Soldier.

General Leonard Wood said at a dinner in Washington:

"A new soldier boy is likely to be nervous, likely to make mistakes, but this is no sign of cowardice. It soon wears off.

"A new soldier was having his first experience of night duty. The password was 'Discount.'

"As the soldier paced back and forth in the darkness a black figure suddenly bounced before him.

"'Halt! Who goes there?' he challenged.

"'A friend,' was the reply.

"'Advance, friend,' said the new soldier. 'Advance and give the discount.'"—Exchange.

COMMUNITY FARM BUREAU MEETINGS

Scheduled for Five County Points—Prof. Crosby to Speak on Fruit Pests and Discuss Special Problems.

The Ulster County Farm Bureau has scheduled the following community meetings:

Clintondale, Tuesday, March 11, 7:30 p. m., at Grange Hall.
Milton, Wednesday, March 12, 7:30 p. m., at Community Hall.
New Hurley, Thursday, March 13, 2 p. m., at the school house.
Ulster Park, Thursday, March 13, 7:30 p. m., Odd Fellows' Hall.
Flatbush, Friday, March 14, 7:30 p. m., at Flatbush Church.
Highland, Wednesday, March 12, 2 p. m., at the high school.

Prof. C. R. Crosby, of the State College of Agriculture, will discuss the control of the most injurious fruit pests at each of these meetings. The apple red bug, apple maggot or railroad worm, and pear psylla will probably demand the most attention.

The apple red bug and apple maggot did considerable damage in many Ulster county orchards last year. Many growers are not familiar with the proper method of controlling these insect pests. The best fruit growers have more difficulty in controlling the red bug than any other insect pest.

These meetings will offer a splendid opportunity to those growers who are having any special problems on insect control. Prof. Crosby is one of the best entomologists of the state. The Farm Bureau is fortunate in being able to secure his services for a week.

SUITS FOR WEAR ON STORMY DAYS

Leather, Waterproof Cloth, Rubberized Material, Among the Favorites.

RUBBER-SOLED ARMY BOOTS

Burdensome Footgear Is Displaced—Sou'wester Caps That Fishermen Wear, Some of the Innovations for Rainy Weather.

New York.—Women should take the rainy day seriously. They should not save up for it; they should prepare for it, advises a prominent fashion writer. The "saving up" process may sound wise to philosophers, and it may appeal to financiers when translated in terms of coin; but when it applies to apparel, the philosophy and the practice are all wrong.

Can any woman answer the question as to why she should look her worst on a day when she needs to look her best? Why does she feel that every occasion in life requires a certain kind of costume, except a day of bad weather? Thinking along the right track would make one confident that a special costume for a rainy day is as necessary as one for a dinner party. The average woman, in fact, the vast majority of women, will tell you that they wear out their old clothes when the skies are gray, the snow flies, and the rain soaks the atmosphere and floods the streets.

There are individuals who achieve in life the distinction of wearing old clothes as well as they do new ones; of investing any costume with a certain chic. But these are individuals, rare types among women who are envied by all the others and who are enabled, through this personal achievement, to be economical if they so desire. They are a class apart, they are not models for other women. No one can imitate them. An extraordinary distinction in dress is a gift, as Harry Lauder says, and not a habit.

Now, cutting out these women who may do anything they please in the realm of dress, there is a world of women to be guided, counseled and chided in the kind of clothes they save up for bad weather. If clothes cannot be worn in the sunshine, it is obvious that they are unbecoming, ungraceful, out of style. They must have serious defects, or they would continue in harness. Hung in the dark corners of the closet, and taken out only for the dark hours of the day, they cannot be expected to glorify or enhance a woman's appearance. Yet, one finds almost invariably that these are the clothes which dot the streets on rainy days; that appear in the shops, and that do duty at luncheon.

And what is the result? A woman dresses herself in all the things that she dislikes and has discarded, goes abroad under a gray sky, and finds herself accepting an invitation to lunch or dropping in for an afternoon tea when the sun is shining, the streets are dry, and she looks like the symbol of an old clothes shop.

War Brought in Leather.

Although the military touches in women's costumery have not been startling or aggressive, outside of the regulation uniforms worn by war workers, there has been an introduction of other fabrics than those worn in peace. Leather, for instance. Women had nothing whatever to do with this fabric, except for shoes and hand bags, until the constant usage of it by soldiers on the streets of cities gave rise to its introduction for women's clothes.

Beige-colored leather suit, with skirt opened and lapped at back. Umbrella, knitted muffler and velours cap are in dark red.

The British "warm," the well-known coat invented by the nation that has given to the world the best uniform produced by the war, is a garment that was taken up by women. Its usage suggested coats that were modified editions of it.

Then leather skirts were taken up for sports last year, and they have been retained for rough weather in large cities. Leather has been worn in tan and in black and there are coats of it made of that shiny kind which one once saw on policemen.

Rubberized cloth was brought in by the war. Khaki-colored covert cloth and gabardine were returned to fashion through the war. Sheepskin collars and cuffs came about through its use as a lining for British coats. Extra high leather boots have been emphasized since America went into the war, and now leather caps and hats with brims like the New England fishermen wear have come into fashion.

France brought out a host of new umbrellas since the war, because the French women were compelled to walk. The majority of Parisiennes put the bad weather down to the war, and there were Americans who thought along the some channel; but the probable truth is that the French woman, even of the poorest class, is not used to walking the streets in fair or foul weather, and when the war compelled her to do this, through the lack of taxis and money, she found leather, oilskin and umbrella necessary.

Coat suit of rainproof dark-blue cloth braided with black shoelaces. Cap of varnished blue straw. High leather boots reach up to the short skirt, and the high collar is of sealskin.

Entire Leather Suit.

One woman turns herself out on the street whenever her best clothes are inadvisable, in a beige-colored leather suit made by a sporting goods house. The skirt is narrow and short, slit in the back, then lapped over to allow room for walking. The trench coat is cut double-breasted, with large, bundle pockets and straight, stiff cuffs in which a woman now places her purse and handkerchief. The cap, the umbrella and the knitted muffler, which goes twice about the neck, are in dark red. The double row of buttons are made of leather, and tan shoes, with rubber soles and heels, are laced up as high as the new regulations will permit.

Leather is costly, you know, and every woman does not feel that she can indulge in it, but heavy brown tweed, which stands the rain in an admirable manner, is used as a substitute by another well-dressed woman. This has a short skirt heavily stitched at the hem, and the odd blouse, which looks like a jacket, goes over the shoulders, is fastened at each side of the chest, and has a muffler as an attached collar. The buttons on this suit are of leather, and the loops that go over them are of stitched tweed. There is a flat cap of brown leather, and the high shoes have no heels, but thick, extension soles and leather laces.

When Old Clothes Are Used.

There are women who cling to their old suits and frocks for certain occasions. Nothing can divorce them from these garments as long as they hold together. Habit of mind compels these women to use these clothes for umbrella days, but the necessity for warmth may compel them to get a storm coat that covers all the shabbiness beneath and presents to the outside world that spick-and-span appearance which suggests that something new is at hand.

The best of these storm coats is of rubberized cloth, with cap to match. It is made like a chemise frock, with immense pockets at the hips, a turned-up cuff at the hem, and a wide, fichu collar that hugs the back of the neck and fastens across the chest with two leather buttons. The high-waisted belt fastens in front with a leather button.

Whatever else you eliminate in your rain apparel, don't omit pockets. They have taken a new lease of life. The soldiers have taught us their smartness, and necessity has taught us their convenience. They must be big enough to hold packages, and warm enough to protect the hands.

Fooling the Boss.

"The boss sint me down after a pane of glass 10 by 14," said the workman to the hardware man.

"Well, Patrick, I don't think I can give you a 10 by 14, but I can give you a 14 by 10, if you think you can make that do."

"Jist give me wan av thim, and O'll jist turn the ol' thing by it lengthways, and O'i don't belave the boss himsilf nd ever know the difference."—Exchange.

"Do you believe in heredity?"

THIS TELLS HOW TO FIGURE INCOME TAX

Squarely Up to Every Individual to Get Busy by March 15 or Suffer Penalty.

"Don't wait until the final due date, March 15th, for paying your Income Tax and making your return. Avoid the last minute rush. Any person can figure out his liability today as well as he can next week, and if there is any point on which he needs advice he can now get in touch with a Revenue man."

This word of advice is being given out by Internal Revenue men. Returns and payments are being collected in New York by the following Collectors of Internal Revenue:

Vincent H. Riordan, Neil Brewster, Roscoe Irwin, Mark Eisner, William H. Edwards and Bertram Gardner.

Every aid of their offices and field forces is being given freely to the public.

But the Income Tax men will not pull your door-bell or your coat-tails, according to the Collector's announcement. It is squarely up to every individual to figure out his own case and to get busy if he comes within the scope of the new Revenue law.

Did You Earn This Much?

Every unmarried person who received income averaging $19.25 a week during 1918 and every married couple who jointly received income averaging $38.50 a week should secure at once from the nearest Deputy Collector or the nearest bank a blank Form 1040 A. That form contains the information he will need to enable him to figure his correct net income and any tax that he owes the Government.

The law requires that every unmarried person who had a net income of $1,000 or over and every married person whose net income was $2,000 or over (including the income of husband or wife, and the earnings of minor children, if any) must make a return on or before March 15th. And this requirement does not hinge on whether the person owes a tax.

Taxable Income.

An individual must include under gross income all gains, profits and income derived from salaries, wages, or compensation for personal service of whatever kind and in whatever form paid, or from professions, vocations, business, sales or dealings in property of all kinds, interest, rent, dividends, or profits derived from any source whatever. Very few items of income are exempt.

Deductions include ordinary and necessary business expenses, interest paid or accrued on indebtedness, taxes of all kinds except Federal income and excess profits taxes and assessments for local benefits, losses actually sustained, debts ascertained to be worthless, and depreciation on buildings, machinery, fixtures, etc., used in business. A further deduction is allowed for contributions to corporations operated for religious, charitable, scientific or educational purposes or for the prevention of cruelty to children or animals to an amount not exceeding 15 per cent of the taxpayer's net income as computed without the benefit of the contribution deduction.

The taxpayer is not allowed to deduct any personal, living or family expense, any amount spent for improving property, or any expense of restoring property or making good its exhaustion for which an allowance is claimed under depreciation.

Figuring the Tax.

Before figuring the normal tax the dividends are deducted as credits from net income, together with the personal exemption. As in previous years, dividends of domestic corporations are exempt from normal tax when received by the stockholder.

The normal tax rates for citizens and residents are as follows: On the first $4,000 of net income in excess of the credits the rate is 6 per cent; on any further taxable income the rate is 12 per cent.

The surtax rates apply to net income of each individual in excess of $5,000. The personal exemption and the dividends are not deductible before computing surtax. In the case of returns by husband and wife, the net income of each is considered separately in computing any surtax that may be due. Form 1040 should be used for making returns of net income exceeding $5,000, and the instructions on that form will show how to figure the surtax.

Business House Returns.

Employers and others who paid wages, salaries, rents, interest or similar determinable gains in an amount of $1,000 or over during 1918 to any person must file an information return with the Government. Blanks may be secured from the Collector.

Every partnership must file a return showing its income and deductions and the name and address of each partner, with his share of the profits or losses during the past year. Personal service corporations will file similar information for 1918.

★ INCOME TAX PAYS FOR PUBLIC BENEFITS. ★

"Viewed in its largest and truest sense, the payment of taxes is payment for benefits received or expected. Only from a narrow and essentially selfish and shortsighted viewpoint can the individual propose to himself the evasion of tax liability as a desirable course of action."
—Daniel C. Roper, Commissioner of Internal Revenue.

Tit for Tat.

A very fat man was much amused by the ludicrous appearance of a bow-legged youth, who called upon him with a message. "By jingo," he exclaimed, "you look as if you'd been riding a barrel!" The bow-legged one smiled as he retorted: "And you look as if you'd been swallowing one!"

QUESTIONNAIRE TO EDUCATE CHILDREN

Troy Auto Club's Timely Work in Public Schools to Lessen Number of Accidents Should be Noted Here—Posters for Autoists.

The Troy Automobile Club has inaugurated a campaign for the education of automobilists, the public, and especially the school children, in an effort to reduce the number of automobile accidents in that vicinity. President Frank M. Baucus and committee are distributing large posters containing traffic rules and regulations for autoists with the purpose of persuading drivers to exercise greater care in the operation of their machines.

Children's Questionnaire.

A "traffic questionnaire" is being distributed to all pupils in the public schools of the city for education on the children

1. What should you do before crossing a street?

I should stop and look both ways, first to the left (as danger will likely be nearer from that side) and then to the right. If the street is clear for at least half a block, then I can go ahead and cross the street quickly.

2. Where is the proper place for you or anyone to cross the street?

At a crossing, and I should never cross a street at any other point for the reason that there is less danger at crossings than at any other point.

3. What precaution should you observe in crossing a railroad?

Look both ways—cross with the watchman's signal, but never when the gates are down. Stop! Look! Listen!

4. Why should you not play in a street frequently used by automobiles or other vehicles?

Because I am apt to bewilder the drivers, thus making them lose control of vehicles, which would be dangerous not only to me, but also to others.

5. Should you ever use roller skates, coasters or other similar contrivances on the street?

Never, because they are always dangerous, particularly on the streets frequently by automobiles and other vehicles.

6. What danger is there in stealing a ride on an automobile or other vehicle?

I am in danger of falling off and being injured, or I may be run over by another vehicle when I jump off. This is a very dangerous practice and I should avoid it.

7. In case a child or anyone is injured by an automobile, what is the first thing to do?

I should secure assistance, notify the child's parents and stand ready to assist in getting the injured one to the nearest hospital as quickly as possible.

8. Should you ever throw stones at an automobile or other vehicle, and why?

I should never throw a stone or other missile at any vehicle because I might hurt someone, or damage the vehicle, or cause the driver to lose control, which might result in an accident and for the reason that it is against the law.

9. Should you look after younger children in crossing the streets, and why?

I should assist younger children in crossing the street because they cannot think as quickly as I can, and may not realize the danger which threatens them.

10. What should you not do if you see an automobile or other vehicle unattended standing on the street?

I should not touch it or move any of the levers, or blow the horn, or even go near it. I might release a brake or start the engine or do something else that would do damage, and the reason that it is against the law.

11. When playing on a street and you see an automobile or other vehicle approaching, what should you do?

I should step to the side of the street or to the pavement until the vehicle has passed.

12. Should you stand on the sidewalk close to the street when the vehicles are passing close to the curb, or should you stand close to any vehicle when it is passing you?

No, because it is very dangerous. I should get as far away as possible from any passing vehicle.

13. What would you do if you were standing in the middle of the street and should see automobiles or other vehicles coming both ways?

I should stand perfectly still and let the vehicles pass around me, because they are not likely to run over me if I do not move.

14. What should you do upon alighting from a street car?

"Beat it" for the nearest curb instead of cutting behind the street car.

FIREMEN PREPARE FOR CONVENTION

It Will be Held in Saugerties on June 17 and 18—There will be an Old Fashioned Parade and General Good Time.

The 30th annual convention of the Hudson Valley Volunteer Firemen's Association will be held in Saugerties on Tuesday and Wednesday, June 17 and 18, and the committee in charge are preparing for one of the best conventions ever held by the association.

The annual business session will be held Tuesday morning and afternoon. Kingston is after the convention for 1920, but Poughkeepsie has also put in a bid for it. Kingston, it will be remembered, did not care to have the convention this year and Saugerties came to the rescue of the association by offering to entertain its members.

The old time parade which is always a feature of the convention will be held on Wednesday afternoon under the direction of the Saugerties fire department.

D. L. Maxwell is the local secretary in charge of arrangements. He resides in Saugerties and any fire company seeking information regarding the convention can get in touch with him there.

President Harry Arnold of the association is sending out personal letters to each member of the association urging them to attend the convention in June.

SEAGER.

Seager, March 10.—Miss Irene Carr spent the week end at Hardenbergh, a guest of Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Lawrence.

Mr. and Mrs. Niles Fairbain returned to their home in this place last week, after spending the winter in Beaverkill.

The Rev. and Mrs. Hewitt of Arkville and Mrs. Edward Young of Milton were guests at the home of Walter Kittle on Wednesday.

1918 WAS 'PHONE CO'S HARDEST YEAR

President Vail's Report Throws Light on How Problems Presented By War Conditions and Government Control Were Met.

The fundamental soundness of the Bell system, the competent way it has met the requirements of the war, its fair and open way of dealing with the problems of governmental control, and its clear understanding of the responsibilities of the future, are set forth by Theodore N. Vail in the report of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company.

The year 1918 has been from every standpoint the most strenuous and difficult year in the whole history of the telephone, says Mr. Vail. It has been impossible to maintain standards and difficult to meet the increasing demands for service, greatly augmented at all centers where war industries and activities concentrated. About 14,000 employes of the telephone system entered military service. Over 20 per cent of the expert staff were taken over by the government for special or active war service.

Of particular interest is a letter to Mr. Vail from the secretary of war, appreciative of the "splendid spirit of co-operation" of the Bell engineers, which was indispensable in the development of the airplane wireless telephone set and other important apparatus used in the war.

Facts About the Bell System.

At the end of the year there were 10,992,325 telephones connected with the Bell system which owned 7,200,000 and connected with about 3,800,000 owned by connecting companies and rural associations.

The wire mileage owned by the Bell Companies was 23,281,150 miles, 94 per cent copper and 60 per cent underground. The net amount added to plant and real estate was $77,922,631. The total provision for depreciation of plant during the year was $54,000,000.

American T. & T. Co.

The net earnings of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company for the year were $54,293,016. The interest charges were $10,391,694, and the dividends at the regular rate of 8 per cent per annum were $35,229,698. Of the resulting balance $5,000,000 were appropriated for contingencies and $3,671,622 added to surplus.

The number of stockholders increased over 25,000 during 1918, and now exceeds 112,000, the majority being women. The average holding is 39 shares.

The report makes a remarkable showing of the engineers of the Bell system, which includes the Western Electric Company, Inc. Many went into the army and navy and those remaining were charged with tremendous tasks, both civil and military. Much of their work, performed under the oath of secrecy during the war, has but recently been made known.

The complete military telephone system was constructed in France. The Bell system largely provided the technically skilled men to execute this work and its engineers assisted and co-operated with the Signal Corps in designing the system. Hundreds of girls were specially trained by the Bell Companies to operate this system, and reports show that they played an important part in achievements of the American army.

Wireless telephone sets for communication between airplanes and between the ground and airplanes, as well as for use on navy hydroplanes and submarine chasers, were perfected by Bell engineers. An unbreakable secret cipher was developed for the telegraph printer and adapted to other means of transmission. They worked out apparatus for the detection and location of invisible airplanes and for locating accurately the position of enemy artillery.

Faced with a shortage of men, of operators and of material the engineers devised new methods and new apparataus to over come these deficiencies. The Bell system, through its rights under patents, is free to operate all forms of the best apparatus, and is not excluded from developments of the art in any field.

Special mention is made of the multiplex telephone and telegraph system by means of which five telephone conversations or forty telegraph messages may be carried over a single pair of wires. The economy of this system for long lines is obvious, and while its application is necessarily gradual, it is already in use and its use will be extended immediately.

Combination and Regulation.

Mr. Vail says that it would be extremely unfortunate if, with a very pronounced public sentiment in favor of it, a wire system with nation-wide, universal, comprehensive service and complete utilization of all the facilities cannot be evolved from the existing conditions.

It seems paradoxical that the interpretation and application of existing laws against restraint of trade should be an obstacle in the way.

There is little doubt, he says, remaining in the minds of the public, but that regulated monopoly is better than unregulated Government ownership, and there is no longer any extensive conviction that there can be effective competition in the electric transmission of intelligence.

Changes in the existing laws concerning control and regulation, competition and combination are shown to be necessary, and Mr. Vail closes with a few basic principles upon which such changes should be built. The conclusion is that similar utilities, in territories economically determined, should be combined; should have an operating organization shown to be efficient and economical; and with their administration there should be somehow combined by legislation, the power, freed as far as possible from political and class influence, and subject to reasonable review, "to establish capital charges, operating costs and revenue."

Each New Day Brings a Better Maxwell

MOST anyone would think that after building 50,000 motor cars on one chassis plan that close on to perfection would be reached.

That is true in a large measure; but it happens to be only the point at which the Maxwell executives began.

They decided to keep on building Maxwells better and better as each new day went by.

The locomotive engineer drives his engine better every day. The banker who loans money does so with more and more judgment. The man at the forge—likewise.

This is the principle on which the Maxwell is built. It is not new in the business world. But it is sound.

And today, with 300,000 Maxwells built on this plan, anyone will readily understand—

Why a Maxwell runs on and on and never quits with age;

Why a Maxwell seldom turns in at a repair shop;

Why a Maxwell is so eagerly sought for in the second-hand market.

One of the last of more than 1000 improvements made since the first Maxwell was built is the appearance.

Let your eyes glance over this present day Maxwell and you'll think the price $200 more than we ask for it.

Clay Lodge Minstrel March 18.

C. S. Clay Lodge have secured for their duplicate performance of their popular minstrel show to be given in Pythian Hall on Tuesday evening, March 18. Harry Clearwater, the famous baritone soloist of this city. This announcement it is hoped will overcome the disappointment that many suffered in not being able to witness the first show because of the crowd that stormed the hall last Tuesday evening. The lodgemen feel deep regret that so many had to be turned away but they promise in fairness a better show and the guarantee of a seat for everyone on next Tuesday night. The money that is raised by these entertainments is devoted to the benevolent purposes of the lodge in taking care of the sick members. During the last year this lodge has paid from its treasury for the care of sick members over $1,500 in this manner and it is for this worthy cause that every one who purchases a ticket is helping.

We Are Fifty Years Old This Year

Golben Jubilee Anniversary Celebration Soon—Service, Fifty Years Ago and Now.

The principal service fifty years ago was the personal service of the sales people. We are told that fifty years ago, people from the surrounding country drove to Poughkeepsie twice a year to do their semi-annual shopping and at that time personal service was the only real service. It was quite customary for sales people to take up three or four bolts of cloth and carry them to some hotel to have the customer make his selection. There were various other small services in those days, but the personal service counted the most.

Today, the services are many and varied. Among them you will find in this store a fleet of rapid and efficient delivery cars, 4 elevators, 35 different departments all under one roof, a Transfer Shopping Service, a Post Office on the premises, a free checking counter, a Parcel Post Station, two rest rooms, 2 long distance telephone booths, a mail order and telephone shopper and telephones connect with every department.

TELLS OF HIS FIRST AIR RIDE

Telegraph Operator Describes His Sensations.

ASKS ANTICS BE CUT OUT

Says Gullet Camped on Roof of His Mouth While Enjoying His First Trip Aloft—Nose Dive Seemed to Last Two Months—Earth Seems Like Relief Map or Mechanical Drawing of Some Kind.

George T. Everist, telegraph operator of Bucyrus, O., and before the war student at the Ohio State university, known among the telegraph operators of the state, now with the signal corps at American post office No. 902, somewhere in France, writes as follows to his parents concerning his experience in riding in an airplane for the first time:

"I happened to meet one of the fellows I had known in the States who had just returned from the front, a licensed aviator. He promised to take me for a ride and, having always had a longing for a little joy ride through the clouds, I decided to take a chance. At a set time I met him at an aviation camp, where he invited me to get into his 'red devil' bombing plane. I could see nothing red about it excepting the stripes on the bottom of the plane. I jumped into the seat, from which I could see the top of Archie's head from his eyes up, so I couldn't tell whether he was laughing or not, or wore a serious smile, but his eyes twinkled merrily as we arose from the meadow into the unknown ether.

Sublime Sensation.

"The earth seemed to be dropping away from us, rather than that we were moving. I had previously told the old kid that it was my first trip aloft, and because of that I would rather not have him try any antics with his steed for fear of upsetting my digestive apparatus; so, without mishap we climbed, coasted and remained motionless, then climbed again.

"If one can call a sensation 'beautiful' this would be the place to use that word. A more beautiful, serene or sublime sensation cannot be found on land or sea. It makes a fellow feel as though he were suspended from heaven by a manila rope and that one of the angels were swinging him around.

"Once in a while the top of some church steeple would be caught in the sun's rays and reflect back a sharp ray of light, which only added to the novelty of the event. I was thus amusing myself by taking a glance downward once in a while, but never for very long at a time. The earth seemed like a relief map or a mechanical drawing of some sort. I was rudely awakened just about that time by Archie sticking up his index finger and glancing at the 'ometer.' I forgot just what kind of an 'ometer it was, but I head on it to my amazement, that we were up in the air 5,000 feet; a mile in the air and I felt as safe as though I had been riding first class in some French 'chemin de fer' (railway train).

"We were gliding along at the rate of just 100 miles an hour, but the earth didn't seem to be retreating that fast.

Prepares for Worst.

"But, hist! the plot thickens. Upon commencing the downward glide I noted a peculiar twinkle in the optics of Archie, and I prepared for the worst. I knew he was going to try something, and sure enough he pointed the nose of the consarned chariot of his right down toward terra firma, and if I hadn't been buckled in I'd've been a plum in that gum-foozled [illegible] I'd have been left far behind. [illegible] hanging on to one corner of the [illegible] landed on one of the [illegible] Saturn.

"[illegible] sensation you get [illegible] down on a first class [illegible] absolutely nothing on this [illegible] My entrails, including my [illegible] were camped right on the roof [illegible] and, although this nose [illegible] only lasted a minute or two, [illegible] I thought it must have been at least two months. But the tobogan [illegible] righted itself and we coasted a good ten miles before the propeller [illegible] again.

"Oh, it was a swell life, but he didn't try any more tactics, but explained to the earth as beautifully as a chicken takes a dust bath, and it was only an hour after we had started until we landed again in almost the identical spot from which the ascent had been made."

45 Cars in Wilson Party.

That a fleet of 45 cars are attached to President Wilson's party, now touring Europe, is the news received at Bucyrus, O. The information comes from Private Garlen Fairchild of that city. He is with Motortruck Repair unit 305, and is one of the men in charge of the fleet.

Sage Trumpeter Swan.

The State Normal Teaching Museum of Natural History at Pittsburg, Kan., has a rare bird in the shape of a trumpeter swan, rare in this northern latitude. It was killed by a young man while hunting on the Spring river. He took it to several local naturalists before it was identified.

Fairly Warned.

As he was being tossed by her little brother, he pulling at her doll's clothes as she would attempt to dress her doll, she said: "I know a little boy who at 1,200 wants 'bunch to know he's going to get a slap right in his face if he don't behave himself."

START HIM RIGHT!

MENOHER BACKS VICTORY LOAN

Duty of People at Home Not Done Until Fighting Men Are Back, Says Commander of Rainbow Division.

Maj.-Gen. Charles T. Menoher, whose service as former commander of the 42nd (Rainbow) Division demonstrated his fighting qualities, has placed the stamp of his approval of the W. S. S. and Victory Loan campaigns in the following statement:

"The patriotic response of the American people in the matter of the purchase of War Savings Stamps and Liberty Loan Bonds has been one of the most remarkable features of this war. From the tales we had from time to time of the enthusiastic self-sacrifice on the part of the American people at home we, who were fighting in France, knew that these good people were behind us all the time and that they would remain behind us until we had completed the task set out for us—that of beating the Hun. We were beating him, all right, when he cried 'Enough' like the Hun he is.

"Now their task is not done and will not be done until all our boys are returned home and the great machine built up for our task has been dismantled. I know that since the war has practically ended the incentive to concentrate effort is more or less lacking and that interests are again divergent, yet I believe and have faith that the American people will continue their support until the task is fully completed and that we may expect the same patriotic response in securing the coming loan as was manifest during previous loans."

Carter Glass Says—

"I know the appeal of the American Government to the American people will meet a response of which the nation will be proud."

LIMERICKS.

There is a young man on the Rhine
Who writes, "I dislike to repine,
But if folks don't subscribe
These Germans will jibe
At our sitting dead broke on the Rhine."

There was a young lady from Lynn
Who was always excessively thin.
She's not lost any weight
Buying Bonds up to date.
It's high time she began to begin.

There was a young man from Ostend
Who vowed he'd hold out to the end.
He's done it. Moreover, from Calais to Dover,
They're waiting for what we can lend.

RESOLVED

That peace will find us backing Uncle Sam as strongly as we backed him in war.

That between now and April we will lay every possible stone of the groundwork for the Victory Loan and leave no act undone which will tend to keep alive and if possible quicken the consciousness of the nation that Saving and Thrift are Peace essentials as well as War essentials.

That we will exert our every effort to stop backsliding in bonds of the first four loans and will keep our War Savings Stamps.

That we will carry out our War Savings pledge if that is unfulfilled and make and keep new Savings pledges this year.

That we will work tooth and nail from now till the last day of the April drive to oversubscribe the Victory Loan.

That we will FINISH our job.

JUST WHAT IS MEANT BY "FINISH THE JOB!"

The people of the United States will be asked presently to subscribe to a Fifth Liberty Loan, the Victory Liberty Loan. And they will be asked to do so in order that the Government may "Finish the Job" of the war.

What does that mean?

It means, of course, paying the war bills, bringing the troops home, clearing up the expense of demobilization, looking after the wounded and making payments to the dependents of soldiers—in short, it means wiping the war off the ledger.

But in a spiritual sense it means much more.

The call for the Loan will be another call of patriotism. Is that call to go unanswered? It will be the last chance for the people as a whole to rally in unity to a national demand. In the great work for civilization which our troops accomplished gloriously there should be found the inspiration for completing the task.

"Finish the Job" has a spiritual significance as well as a material significance. It is the only way to prosperity.

"Finish the Job!"

PROSPERITY'S PROSPECT.

Of immediate interest to every man in the country is the business prospect for the coming year. The war was a great upsetter of business great and small—manufacturing, retailing and agricultural. Business covers all these fields, so that whether a man is a farmer, a manufacturer or runs a store his interest is—Business.

The war upset business in three ways—it diverted labor, it diverted goods, it diverted capital. But the supply of labor is gradually returning to normal, and goods are going to the people instead of to the army and the navy. But capital is still tied up because of the war-bills.

There will be no return to business on the vast scale of which this country has shown itself capable until the war-bills are paid, for not until then will the banks be entirely free to renew their normal activity, which is the financing of business enterprises.

As soon as the Victory Liberty Loan is taken by the people the war-bills will be swept off the ledger. If business men want to do business they must buy these bonds as willingly as they bought them during war days.

It is for the people to say whether the people's business is to prosper.

ANSWER TO LOYD'S THRIFT STAMP PUZZLES

A $5 bill is the smallest U. S. bank note that could pay for the young man's stamp order: 10 ones, 12 twos and 9 fives are the smallest quantities to fit the proportions and amount to $5 cents. From a dollar bill only 15 cents would be left; from a $2 bill the change would be 20 cents, but from a $5 note the balance is 75 cents, just enough for the three Thrift Stamps. He received 80 ones, 90 twos, 45 fives and the three Thrift Stamps.

The answer to the second puzzle is: If five times 9 produce 33 then half of 20 would likewise be increased 10 per cent to 11.

WINTER TRAVEL IN ALASKA

Archdeacon Stuck Tells of Some of the Sufferings to Be Encountered in the Frozen North.

Archdeacon Stuck, already famous for his ascent of Mount McKinley, made a remarkable journey into Alaska last winter.

His route extended around the whole arctic coast of Alaska, beginning at the west side, and thence inland to Fort Yukon. He was received everywhere with cordial hospitality by the Eskimos. Two weeks were spent at Point Barrow, where the traveler had an opportunity of studying the largest Eskimo village in Alaska under winter conditions. During the subsequent journey of 225 miles to Flaxman island the party saw only one human being and were housed only twice.

The archdeacon describes it as "the barrenest, most desolate, most forsaken coast I have ever seen in my life; flat as this paper on which I write, the frozen land merging indistinguishably into the frozen sea; nothing but a stick of driftwood here and there, half buried in the indented snow, gives evidence of the shore."

For two weeks the travelers had to face a bitterly cold northeast wind, and the faces of all were continuously frozen. The heaviest task of all was the journey over the winter's unbroken snow to Fort Yukon. On this inland trip Stefansson and his party were encountered and escorted to Fort Yukon, where Stefansson, who was seriously ill, received medical attention.

AIRPLANES IN GREAT WAR

Fokkers Must Be Credited With Remarkable Work That Contributed to Victory of Civilization.

The Fokker series is interesting. First there was the monoplane Fokker, so long a menace at the front. Then they tried the little triplane Fokker, a weird-looking machine, whose specialty was climbing high and diving down on the foe. Unfortunately in the dive the top plane had a way of coming off. It was in a Fokker triplane that the "Red Devil" Baron von Richthofen came to grief, and you can see the engine of his machine, a 110 La Rhone, copied from a French rotary engine.

The last type of Fokker—and a very good one—is the D7 biplane, all metal except for the wings, with a high-power engine and a tremendous climber. The specimen on show belonged to Richthofen's circus. You can follow the attempts of the Germans to win security by armoring their machines, but armoring did not pay, owing to the weight and clumsiness.

Late in 1918 an extraordinary machine was brought down, made entirely of metal, with wings of some kind of aluminum alloy, and a brass seat for the pilot—the whole thing a marvel of bold inventiveness.

A Suggestion.

The Officer—Here, you said you were a painter and could rig up some camouflage to hold the enemy back. What have you done?

The Private—I've made one of the best signs I ever painted. It reads "No Trespassing" in four different languages."

Paying for Votes.

Two political candidates were discussing the coming local election.

"What did the audience say when you told them you had never paid a dollar for a vote?" queried one.

"A few cheered, but the majority seemed to lose interest," returned the other.—The Line Gange.

ARE YOU GOING?

TOMORROW will witness one of the greatest events in the history of theatricals in Kingston. An audience comprised of the most representative people of the City, including State and Municipal officials, will be on hand to lend their presence to the occasion.

This will be the presentation at the Opera House of D. W. GRIFFITH'S supreme masterpiece, "HEARTS OF THE WORLD," in the production of which Mr. Griffith spent eighteen months in France on the actual locale of the story, and of which has been proclaimed everywhere a far greater work than "THE BIRTH OF A NATION," his former triumph.

Here is the Remarkable Cast of Players:

Lillian Gish	Dorothy Gish
Robert Harron	George Fawcett
Little Ben Alexander	George Seigmann
Adolph Lestina	Robert Anderson
Josephine Crowell	Kate Bruce
Jack Cosgrove	Fay Holderness
Anna Mae Walthall	George Nichols
And DAVID WARK GRIFFITH Himself

Among the notable men of history who actually appear in the production are David Lloyd-George, British Premier; Marshal Joffre of France, Former Premier Viviani of France, Winston Churchill, Lord Beaverbrook, Sir Edward Grey, Ex-Premier Asquith, and others whose names are so closely linked to the greatest victory of all time. The very roads traveled by President Wilson on his historic visit to France also are shown.

"HEARTS OF THE WORLD" will be shown at Opera House at 2.30 promptly. In the evening the performances are at 8:15 and the matinees at 2:30. The engagement is for two days, Wednesday and Thursday. The prices for the evening performances are from 25c to $1.00; the matinees from 25c to 50c. A special symphony orchestral accompaniment is one of the big features of the production.

Peru Sparsely Populated.

A territory on the Pacific ocean approximately 1,400 miles in length and 200 miles in width is occupied by Peru. The territory extends over 672,000 square miles with a population that is estimated at 4,500,000 or approximately 6.6 to the square mile.

To Soften Paint Brushes.

If paint brushes have been allowed to get dry and hard, they can be softened in the following manner: Heat some vinegar to boiling point and allow the brushes to simmer in it for about ten minutes. Then wash them well in strong soapsuds.

How Fast Shot Travels.

When standing within a few yards of a gun's muzzle at the time of discharge, a person would be amazingly astonished were he only able to see the shot go whizzing by. Experiments in instantaneous photography prove that the shot not only spread out, cornelike, as they fly, but they string out, one behind another at a much greater distance than they spread.

Thus, with a cylinder gun, when the shot of a charge reaches a target that is 40 yards away, the last shot is lagging full ten yards behind. Even a choke-bore gun shot will lag behind eight yards in 40. This accounts for the wide swath that is mowed in a flock of ducks on which a charge of shot falls just right. About 3 per cent only of the shot, according to the most reliable deductions from experiments, arrive simultaneously at the target aimed at, the others lagging in the ratio named above.

When Romance Faded.

He got her name and address in a Red Cross package and that was all he knew about her. So he did the thing that a lovesick soldier usually does—wrote her a sweet little letter telling how he longed to correspond with some one. How did he know but that a real romance might start? This was her answer:

"I think this war is horrid. I am doing my share. I buy War Savings stamps and eat corn bread, which I don't like. Also I am learning to knit."

But the cruel part is that she added: "I am ten years old."

A Rigorous Sentiment.

"Birds of a feather flock together," said the ready-made philosopher.

"Yes," rejoined Three Finger Sam. "But there's some tar going with the feathers due on a few of the birds flocking around here."

Her Language.

Mrs. Nicker—Mrs. Gabbaler's conversation is very diverting. I understand.

Mrs. Nicker—Oh, indeed, it is; she gets switched off her subject every minute or so.

Changed Attitude.

"How was it when the chief called you in to lecture you that he grew so suddenly bland and kind?"

"I slipped my hat on his seat and he sat down plump upon it."—London Answers.

General Motors declined to 157½. Royal Dutch yielded over 1 point to 93½, while Mexican Petroleum advanced 1¼ to 188½. Distillers rose ¾ to 62¾. At the end of the first fifteen minutes the shipping stocks rallied. American International touching 68.

United States Steel, after dropping to 95½, rose to 96¼, and the other steel shares moved in the same way. The railroad stocks were strong, Southern Pacific moving up to above 103. There was good buying of Great Northern Ore, which advanced 1¼ to 42⅞.

The market closed strong; government bonds unchanged; railway and other bonds steady.

Optimism Nets $500.

Mrs. J. H. Steiner's optimism and faith in General Pershing and his Yanks has won for her $500. While the Germans seemed on the verge of winning the war she went among her neighbors in Pittsburgh cheering them up, saying that the enemy would be beaten before the snow began to fall. When her statements were questioned she promptly offered to wager $500, which was as promptly taken up. She collected.

Knotty Problem.

Here is a queer cause for a law action. A man who was insane determined to throw himself out of the window of an asylum. He made several attempts and was prevented by the servants. But in a new apartment he tried again, jumped out of the window, fell on the lawn and injured himself seriously, but, strange to say, the shock cured his mental disorder. At once he sued the officers of the asylum for negligence. The plaintiff was nonsuited.

BATTERY STANDS SEVERE WEATHER

Discharged One Will Freeze at Temperature of 20 Degrees Above, Says Expert.

FREEZING WILL BURST JARS

Test Should Be Made With Hydrometer at Intervals of Two Weeks or Less—No Set Rules Can Be Given for Care.

The storage battery should be kept fully charged during the winter, according to E. V. Collins, instructor in steam and gas engineering in the Kansas state agricultural college.

"The charged battery," said Mr. Collins, "will stand very low temperatures while a discharged battery will freeze at 20 degrees above zero. Freezing will burst jars, and as a result the battery must be rebuilt.

Battery in Cold Weather.

"In cold weather the starting battery is especially likely to become discharged. The engine is difficult to crank because the oil is cold. It must also be cranked longer each time it is started because the gasoline does not vaporize readily in cold weather. Long trips are few and the charging periods are shorter. The lights which are needed earlier in the evening help in discharging the battery.

"The battery should be tested with a hydrometer at intervals of two weeks or less. If it is found to be discharged, it should be charged as soon as possible either by driving the car or from an outside source.

No Set Rules Given.

"The conditions under which cars operate vary, and there are so many starting systems, that no set rules can be given for the care of the storage battery. If the starter turns the engine with difficulty, the motor should be cranked by hand when starting on a cold morning. The engine may be made to start more easily by priming it through the priming cups or by pulling the choker when it is stopped. The lights should be turned on only when necessary and in many cases the dimmers may be used to save the current."

TALCUM BLOWERS ARE HANDY

Essential That Chalk Be Thoroughly Distributed Over Inside Casing of Tire.

When replacing tire tubes it is essential that talc or French chalk should be thoroughly distributed over the inside of the casing. This operation is greatly facilitated by the use of a small blower such as is used for spraying insect powder. A blower of this kind may be obtained in any drug store, and its use results in the talc being evenly distributed all over the inside of the casing, a very important matter.

MATERIAL FOR WIND SHIELDS

"Super-Glass" Made by Welding Layer of Transparent Celluloid Between Glass Sheets.

A material known as "super-glass" used in making automobile wind shields is made by welding a layer of transparent celluloid between two sheets of plate glass. If struck by a heavy object super-glass will crack but the occupants of the car will not be injured by flying splinters.

WRAP TOOLS IN OILED CLOTH

Prevents Implements From Becoming Rusty When Stowed Away in Tool Compartment.

It is an admirable idea to wrap good tools, such as drills, wrenches, etc., in oiled cloths before stowing them away in the tool compartment. The oiled cloth prevents the implements from becoming rusty, which is quite likely to happen in the course of a strenuous season's running.

Called for Rest.

My brother was telling his little daughter a story and at the same time was trying to get her to sleep, which was a hard thing to do. He was telling the story of Rip Van Winkle. He was saying, "And he walked and walked and walked—" "O, don't walk so much," chimed in the little girl.—Chicago Tribune.

ELECTRIC WARMER ON WHEEL

One of Simplest Conveniences Invented for Automobile—Storage Battery Is Used.

One of the simplest electrical conveniences to make for the automobile is an electric hand-warmer. On the half of the steering wheel that comes toward the driver's body, or where he will grasp the wheel, wind a layer of heavy silk cloth, says Popular Mechanics Magazine. Mica will do just as well, and if one is sure the wheel will never become wet, no silk layer is necessary. Next, cut some asbestos in strips and wind it over the silk. Then wind some resistance wire carefully upon the asbestos, with each turn one-fourth of an inch from the next, being careful that no two turns touch.

A Little Electric Current From the Storage Battery on the Car, Passing Through Resistance Wire Wound on the Steering Wheel, Keeps the Driver's Hands Warm on the Coldest Days.

Over this wind tire tape, extending it also over the other half of the wheel, for the sake of uniform appearance. To the ends of the resistance wire connect insulated, stranded copper wires, that reach down the steering post to a connection with the storage battery of the car. Place a switch in the line so that the circuit can be broken. A good enough resistance material for this purpose is bare iron wire.

KEEP OFF EMERGENCY BRAKE

Good Driver of Motorcar Permits Momentum to Carry Machine to Proper Stopping Place.

The good driver of a motorcar never applies brakes swiftly except in an emergency. When drawing up at a street side she cuts off ignition early and allows momentum to carry the car to the stopping place. The good driver thus saves gasoline and wear upon brakes, coasting to a stop with the smoothness of operation of an easy start.

A good driver never uses the emergency brake, because she never has emergencies. She sees and avoids the emergency before it arrives: the poor driver rushes into trouble and depends upon quickness in grabbing the emergency lever to save life. More than one accident has followed a futile attempt to find the seldom-used emergency lever in a hurry.

The good driver rounds sharp corners to the right and goes over extremely rough stretches of road or hits unexpected "thank you, ma'ams," with clutch disengaged to save the rear axle mechanism.

The good driver uses the wheel with the least possible motion. She does not drag it suddenly from side to side, but turns it so gradually that passengers are unconscious of the fact. In rounding a corner she commences to straighten the car up before it is half way around.—Woman's Home Companion.

FAN SPEED CAUSES TROUBLE

Belt May Be Oily, Greasy, or It Simply May Have Been Stretched Until Loose.

When the fan does not run at the proper speed there are certain definite causes behind the trouble. The belt itself may be oily, greasy, or it may simply have stretched so that it is too loose. The fan may be too tight on its bearing, which may be caused from lack of lubrication. The pulley may be loose on the shaft. By process of elimination it is easy to run down the cause of the trouble and the remedy is obvious in each case.

Had a Narrow Escape.

"Yes, sir," remarked the pompous individual in the noisy clothes, "I'm a self-made man, sir—and the architect of my own fortune." "Well," rejoined the matter-of-fact person addressed, "it's a lucky thing for you that the building inspector didn't come along at the time."—London Tit-Bits.

TRENCH PAPERS DIE AT END OF THE WAR

Memory of Little Sheets That Enlivened Army Life Will Live Forever.

The trench newspaper died with the end of the world war, but in England and France today there are not a few soldiers who, although naturally joyous at the thought of peace, betray a degree of sadness because of the disappearance of these famous little publications.

Editors and reporters were sought out to serve the occasion from all ranks and conditions. Typewriters, papers and pencils were spirited from somewhere, and the trench papers were produced, in most cases, on the firing line. They had to overcome innumerable difficulties. Laughing at death and destruction, it was their mission to lighten the task of the fighting men.

But now the little papers have been scrapped. Editorial offices in the shape of dugouts, bell tents and broken-down huts were stripped with the signing of the armistice, and the Squib, Rocket or Patrol remain only as memories.

It is said of one of these little publications on the British front that not one of the original editorial staff lived to read the last words of the paper they brought into being. Men came and went, but the paper was preserved until the last.

TOWN WELLS GUSH

Water Fills the Storage Tank, but Is of Little Use to Pumps.

The town of Wyoming, three miles south of Dover, Del., has a phenomenon which officials and residents have been unable to explain. The water system, pumping station and tower are a quarter mile from the town proper, with a tank which is nearly 100 feet high and has a capacity of several thousand gallons. Usually it has required an hour or longer to fill the tank by pumping from the driven wells and refill it as water is drawn by consumers.

Within the past week the unusual thing has happened. The keeper of the pumping station was surprised to see the tank filled in about 20 minutes of pumping and in some instances not that long. It is also noticed that even after the pumps have been shut down the water gushes up the pipe for a considerable height, causing the tank to overflow.

With this peculiar situation several town wells have gone dry, the presumption being that the pumping station has struck the same vein of water. Residents with such useless wells have been compelled to tap the town water supply.

Frogs as Barometers.

Certain animals, according to a London naturalist, appear to act as live barometers. And in proof of this he says that while frogs remain yellow nothing but fine weather may be expected, but should their coats begin to assume a brown hue it is a sign of coming bad weather.

MADE RECORD ALTITUDE FLIGHTS

Captain Lang, R. A. F., and Lieutenant Blowes, observer, who made a world's record altitude flight in a British biplane equipped with a single engine. They reached the unprecedented height of 30,500 feet, or six miles up, at Martlesham, England.

MUSTARD GAS COOKS FLESH

Soldier Tells of Experience in Engagement Near Verdun.

"Mustard gas shells which the Huns used in many instances cooked the flesh," said William Arnold, Penn, Ill., Company D, Forty-seventh infantry, while recounting an engagement with the Germans near Verdun.

"When the enemy made an attack, we adjusted our masks, but the gas was so deadly poisonous that it scorched our hands and necks. If a man failed to get his mask on in time, nine times out of ten his face would be badly burned. The effect resembled a bad case of smallpox," he said.

Private Arnold is in the base hospital at Camp Sherman recovering from shrapnel wounds in both legs.

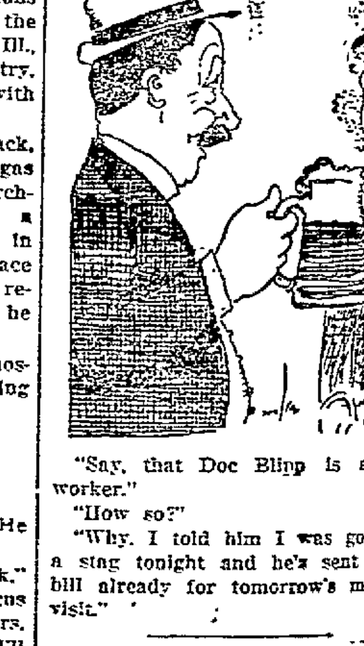

FREAK WINS HIS BET

Found Dead in Police Station as He Had Predicted.

Fifteen years ago "Tattooed Jack," a well-known steeple jack and circus sideshow character of former years, bet "the best drink in town that I'll be found dead some night with my clothes on in this police station," with Sergeant Hutchinson of the North side jail at Pittsburgh.

The other night an aged man was found dead in a cell of the station. No one knew his identity until Hutchinson was called. It was "Tattooed Jack," and he had his clothes on. He had won the bet.

BUSINESSLIKE

"Say, that Doc Blimp is a fast worker."

"How so?"

"Why, I told him I was going to a stag tonight and he's sent me a bill already for tomorrow's morning visit."

"Pals" With His Daddy.

The other evening I had company and of course my small brother had to be on hand, and as usual was tormenting me. After so long a time I said, "If you don't behave I will send you in to papa," and as he always has an answer for everything I was not surprised to hear him say: "Well, I'm not afraid of dad, 'cause we are old pals."—Chicago Tribune.

A paper, prepared by Mrs. Rodie and read by Mrs. Harrison, because of the illness of Mrs. Roote, had for its subject "Australian Life In The Bush; Collectors and Collections; Wool Industries." The paper was followed by a reading given by Mrs. Fessenden entitled "Troopers,—Police." The next meeting of the club will be held March 24 at the home of Mrs. V. B. Van Wagonen, Elmendorf street. On April 28 the club will enjoy its annual banquet at the Hotel Stuyvesant.

P. S. Baringer. The witnesses were Mrs. Bertha M. Logan and Ernest H. Stingle. Following the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Mosher left for Poughkeepsie and will enjoy an extended honeymoon through the south. Upon their return Mrs. Mosher will reside with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Stingle until Mr. Mosher has completed his work on a government contract at Chester, Pa. Chapel on Saturday, March 29th.

A BLUNDER

By LIZZIE M. PEABODY.

(Copyright, 1919, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

Rivertown's two remaining veterans of the Civil war met and passed each other without a sign of recognition; and Dolly D.'s pretty face wore a puzzled look as from her window she gazed after each in turn.

Both were of medium height, but Uncle Eb's kindly blue eyes were faded, he was thin, and his hair was snowy white, while Uncle Zeke was of stockier build, his dark eyes were still bright and his hair was an iron gray. "Why, they didn't speak!" the girl gasped in dismay, and added softly, "And they've always been such good friends. I hate to think that they may be unhappy."

Still thinking of the veterans she was soon on her way to the far end of the village, and accepted Uncle Eb's cordial invitation to come and sit with him on the tiny porch of his little old weather-beaten house.

The newspaper he had brought from the post office was still unfolded, and he appeared depressed.

She was troubled when Uncle Zeke passed by and said softly, "He didn't look up, Uncle Eb."

"Huh!" he snorted. "He doesn't have to! I don't care if he never speaks to me again."

"Now! Now! Uncle Eb! And you have always been such good friends," she said, protestingly.

After a silence Uncle Eb spoke. "I know," he said softly. "And always we have lived here side by side. We began going to school the same day, enlisted in the army together, and in the same company fought side by side.

"After the war," he continued reminiscently, "Zeke ran a little grocery store and I cobbled shoes for a living until we settled down here to putter around and keep hens." With a soft little sigh the veteran paused. "Whoever first said that an old dog won't learn new tricks?" he inquired resentfully.

"Rover surprised us both one day by going over to Zeke's and killing his chickens."

"Then it became a habit, but the day he killed four of Zeke's best pullets Zeke lost all patience and shot him. Don't think I blamed Zeke. I didn't. But I missed old Rover, and somehow I couldn't feel so friendly again toward the one who shot him. Perhaps Zeke knew it. Anyway he sold his poultry and went over to Wingfield for a while. You remember, Dolly?"

She nodded and he continued:

"When he came home again 'twas toward night and I was out in my yard. I was glad to see him, and he seemed so friendly that I hoped for a return of the old happy times."

Again Uncle Eb paused and then burst out wrathfully. "And that very night that sneaking, revengeful,—well, anyway, that night he shot the major." "The major?" she asked. "My cat!" he explained.

"I thought you called him the corporal," she said smiling. Uncle Eb straightened. "He wasn't a common cat," he declared proudly. "I taught him many tricks, and the best ones earned him well-deserved promotions."

"How Zeke would have roared at some of Major's tricks," he said regretfully. "He was great company, Maje was," he resumed. "He'd wait patiently on a limb of the old elm tree, and on my return home he'd drop down on my shoulder as I came through the gate."

"But are you sure Uncle Zeke shot him?" she asked.

"Yes! By the moonlight I had seen Major in his yard a short time before and when I heard the report of a gun I ran to the window of my unlighted room just in time to see Zeke enter his house. Then I went looking for my cat and found him dead."

"Did you ask Uncle Zeke to explain?" "Not I. When he spoke to me the next day I turned away. We've never spoken to each other since." "I'm very sorry," Dolly said, as she rose to go, "and I wouldn't have believed it of Uncle Zeke."

"I am provoked; but still I suppose I must run over to see him."

"Hello, Dolly!" greeted Uncle Zeke as he placed a chair for her. "I thought you'd never get away from Eb. He's some buzzer when he gets started. All talk or no talk, Eb is," he said bitterly, "and as full of whims as an egg shell is of yolk and white."

"Why do you think that?" she asked coldly. "He's more than friendly one day, and for no reason at all refuses to speak the next or afterward," he returned hotly.

Her blue-gray eyes flashed. "You shot his pretty black and white trained cat!" she cried. "That's news to me!" he said "Think!" she urged. "The night you came from Wingfield."

His face grew troubled.

"Was it Eb's cat I shot that night?" He sighed as he said ruefully: "I thought it was a skunk after Eb's chickens, and I've been well punished for my blunder.

"We are seventy-seven; and we've traveled down the long trail together. How I've missed Eb, no one will ever know—unless Eb does" — he added thoughtfully. Hastily he patted his pockets. His pipe and tobacco pouch were there. "Come, Dolly! I'll explain and then I'll tell him I'll get a cart load of kittens and train them all for him if he says so," he said eagerly.

Uncle Eb saw them coming, their faces alight with happiness; and raised his white head as a parched and drooping plant raises itself at the coming of the blessed rain.

Costa Rica.

Costa Rica is the most southerly of the Central American republics, extending from the Atlantic to the Pacific ocean, with Cocos Island as its outlying possession. It lies between Nicaragua and Panama. A considerable area of the country is high tableland with a temperate climate, but the land along the coast is low, with tropical vegetation and a strictly tropical climate.

"THIS IS MY OWN, MY NATIVE LAND"

Quotes Weaver of the 27th As His Ship Pulls Into New York and He Is Some Glad to See It—Thanks Home Folk.

Mayor Canfield has received the following letter from Raymond Weaver of 147 Smith avenue, of Co. M, 107th Infantry, written just as the steamship was pulling into New York harbor, in which he extends heartfelt appreciation for the many kindnesses received from the hands of the people of Kingston:

Homeward Bound.
Aboard the Nieuw Amsterdam,
March 8, 1919.

To the Hon. Mr. Canfield,
Mayor of Kingston,
Honorable and Dear Sir:

At the present writing we are just pulling into New York harbor and every man aboard is straining his neck to get his first glance at the old empire state, while deep down in our hearts we reverently feel the true meaning of that poetic phrase, "This is my own, my native land."

We have been away from home now for almost a year during which time we all saw action in both Belgium and France. Many of us have been in England while convalescing and we thought we would drop you a line to let you know how good it feels to be coming back to God's own country.

We were the first American troops to fight in Belgium, the first to smash the Hindenburg Line in France, and the first combat division to return home. Just how good it feels to be coming back to Kingston only we ourselves know.

We all join in extending to you and the people of Kingston our heartfelt appreciation for the many kindnesses we received from your hands, and unanimously proclaim that there is only one real country on the face of God's green earth, the good old U. S. A.

Respectfully yours,
RAYMOND WEAVER,
Co. M, 107th U. S. Inf.

Harry W. Eckert died very suddenly on Sunday evening at his home on Lafayette street, Saugerties. He had been ill but a short time. Acute Bright's disease caused his death. Mr. Eckert was a son of the late William H. and Sarah Eckert, and he leaves to mourn his passing, a wife and two children, a daughter and a son, and one sister, Mrs. Edward L. Seaman. Deceased was in the 44th year of his age. The sympathy of numerous friends will be extended to the bereaved family.

The funeral of Private George N. Heulon, who died in a debarkation hospital in New York Saturday morning of pneumonia, was held this afternoon from his late residence on Gill street and thence to the Lutheran Church of the Redeemer. The Rev. P. S. Baringer officiated. The interment was in Montrepose Cemetery with military honors. A firing squad from Company M fired the last salute over the grave of the dead soldier. The floral offerings were many and beautiful and the funeral services were largely attended.

Mrs. Margaret A. Shear, widow of Peter E. Shear, died very suddenly at her son's home, Quarryville, at 6 o'clock Sunday morning. Mrs. Shear's death occurred before medical attention could be procured. Coroner Norvin R. Lasher was notified and after examination pronounced death due to apoplexy and arteriosclerosis. Mrs. Shear was 77 years old. She is survived by three daughters, Mrs. Abram Freligh, of Blue Mountain, Mrs. George Harris of Jersey City, and Ella of Englewood, N. J., and four sons, George of Joliet, Ill., Albert, Clarence and Irving.

Mrs. Mary Daly, a sister of Congressman William E. Cleary, died Saturday morning at her home, 411 74th street, Brooklyn, after a lingering illness. She was born 65 years ago at Ellenville, and has resided in Brooklyn for the past 20 years. She is survived by two brothers, Congressman Cleary and Cornelius J. Thomas; a sister, Sarah Cleary; a son, Emmett Daly, and four daughters, Sister Ursula Marie of the Order of St. Joseph; Nora A. Daly, Mrs. Eugene A. Dowd and Miss Jane Daly. She was buried in the family plot in Flatbush following funeral service at the Church of Our Lady of Angels, 74th street and Fourth avenue, Monday morning.

Anna B. Deyo, widow of S. DuBois Deyo, died this morning at Floral Park, L. I. Had she lived until June she would have been 81 years old. Mrs. Deyo formerly lived in Kingston but of late years had made her home with her daughter, Bertha, wife of I. Wakeley Hommel, at Floral Park. Mrs. Deyo had been an invalid for many years, having been confined to her room with rheumatism the past years. Although suffering untold pain at times, she was always cheerful and patient. Several weeks ago she became much worse and had been gradually failing ever since, her suffering greatly increasing. Mrs. Deyo was passionately fond of flowers, especially the growing of them, and in her younger days her garden was indeed a show spot. She was a devout Christian woman and a loyal member of the Albany Avenue Baptist Church, this city, until her removal to Floral Park. She was a member of Wiltwyck Chapter, D. A. R. Mrs. Deyo leaves to mourn her loss two sons, R. H. and Jesse C. Deyo of Newark, N. J., and five daughters, Mrs. Cora D. Gorton of Brookfield, Madison county, N. Y.; Edith, a nurse at Paterson, N. J.; Mrs. I. W. Hommel of Floral Park; Mrs. Ethelyn Betts of Bayside, L. I.; Mrs. Kathryn D. Boice of Fair street, this city; and several grandchildren. Notice of funeral and interment later.

Mrs. Emma Finch Brown, wife of Walter M. Brown, died at her home on Warren street, Ellenville, at 2:30 o'clock Monday morning, March 10, after an illness of several months, having passed her 72nd birthday in September, 1918. Mrs. Brown was born in Delaware county, a daughter of Edward Finch and Emeline Patterson, his wife, and when a young girl her parents came to reside on a farm near Woodbourne, Sullivan county, where she grew to young womanhood and was united in marriage with Mr. Brown, a promising young man of Woodbourne 54 years ago in January. Mr. and Mrs. Brown spent a part of their long married life in business in Pennsylvania on a farm at Woodbourne, and for a number of years were very successful farmers at Greenfield, N. Y., where they built a fine home, which they occupied until coming to Ellenville about fifteen years ago. For about a dozen years Mr. and Mrs. Brown very successfully conducted a book and stationery store in Keeler block, retiring from business nearly three years ago. Mrs. Brown was a woman in the enjoyment of vigorous health until September, 1918, when she suffered a general breakdown and although everything was done to stay disease, yet with no avail. Mrs. Brown was a woman devoted to her home and family, a good neighbor and a kind friend, of a fine Christian character, devoted to her church and active in all lines of church work, both in the Greenfield M. E. Church while residing there and uniting her letter to the local M. E. Church upon coming to reside in Ellenville. Mr. and Mrs. Brown have had a long married life, which is not often allotted to many, and they were devoted to each other, and the loss is a keen loss to the husband, who survives with one daughter, Jennie, wife of E. D. Montross, of Briggs Street, and one granddaughter, Mrs. Edward G. Misner of Ithaca, N. Y., who have the sincere sympathy of a large circle of friends. The funeral will be held from her late home Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock. In the absence of her pastor, Rev. J. E. Appley, the service will be conducted by Rev. L. J. Champlain of Phillipsport, N. Y., a former pastor of deceased at Greenfield, N. Y. The interment will be made in the Fantinekill Cemetery.

Rondout Presbyterian Lecture.

The newspapers inform us that the I. W. W. Socialists, Nihilists and Bolsheviki are making great efforts to organize the foreign elements of our population for a bloody revolution and the formation of a Bolshevist republic. The government of the United States is seeking to enlist the churches and educational institutions of the country in an effort to reach and Americanize these same elements. That the forces of disintegration and destruction have not a free hand will be shown by a series of stereopticon lectures to be given by the pastor of the Rondout Presbyterian Church on the general subject of "Our Neighbors." The lecture on Sunday evening, March 16, will be "Our Italian Neighbors."

CAMERA AS A STEREOPTICON

Ingenious Idea by Which Photographic Apparatus May Be Made to Do Double Duty.

A handy method of turning an ordinary camera into a stereopticon with which you can project enlarged images of photographs, picture postal cards, etc., upon a screen is described by F. E. Brimmer in Popular Science Monthly. The author gives to the contraption the hybrid name of cameropticon.

Procure a box about 18 inches wide by 24 inches long and in one corner set your camera with its back removed. At the point where the lens contacts with the side of the box bore a two-inch hole. At a point six inches back of the camera place the photograph held upon a support. Near the camera, but where it will not shine into its back, place a bright light with a reflector behind it to concentrate the glare upon the photograph.

Take your cameropticon into a dark room, turn on the light and you will find an image of your photograph upon the wall or screen provided. Use a 150 candle-power bulb.

Of course you will have to focus until the image is clear. Paint the inside of the box black. The dotted lines show the path of the light rays.

Largest Motor Vessel.

The British twin-screw Diesel engined vessel Glenapp, which had just been built by a Glasgow shipyard, is according to the local press the largest and most powerful motor vessel in the world. It is of 10,000 tons deadweight, and has two sets of engines, constructed by Messrs. Harland & Wolff at their Glasgow works. These give a total horse power of 6,000, which figures represent a very marked progress in this type of vessel.

London, March 11.—Civil war and its attendant slaughter and night life go hand in hand in Berlin, said a dispatch from that city today. It costs $25 a day to live in Berlin but one can easily spend four times that much at night.
